Space Suits Them Just Fine

Old Hammondtown Students Create Winning Designs

For student Gayle Almeida of Mattapoisett, the best part about working with her three science project group mates was when they finished creating a life-sized space suit for a theoretical trip to Saturn.

"It was fun," she said. "Although sometimes we did have fights and arguments about what it should look like ... and sometimes we couldn't make up our minds."

Ms. Almeida was just one of the fourth grade students at Mattapoisett's Old Hammondtown School who recently learned about space and the solar system through "hands on" experience. Teacher Daune Smith divided her students into six teams and gave them each the task of creating a model space suit that would withstand the climate and atmospheric conditions of one of the nine planets.

The project was part of a national competition sponsored by Continental Cablevision and The Discovery Channel, and was judged by a panel of educators from Hamilton Standard Space Systems International, Inc. — the makers of the current Space Shuttle suits for NASA.

"I think it was a great project for the students," Ms. Smith said. "They had to design the suit first on paper ... and then they had to explain their technical knowledge of the suit and its parts. They all displayed a great deal of enthusiasm, teamwork and cooperation."

Videotapes were made of each team explaining their suits, which were then sent in for judging in the nationwide "Suit Up for the Space Shuttle" competition. Nearly 1,000 entries were submitted and four students from Old Hammondtown were selected to receive a five-day, all-expense-paid trip to the NASA-endorsed U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, Alabama.

The winning team — comprised of Jamie Mitchell, Jason Baker, Andrew Whalen, and Cory Travers — collaborated to create a model suit for a proposed space trip to Mercury. The four were recently honored at a school assembly where they received awards and special recognition for their work.

In addition, they will be departing for Space Camp on March 5 along with their instructor, Ms. Smith. The trip will include simulated astronaut training and will culminate in two Space Shuttle "missions" in which the students will play the roles of both the flight crew and the mission control team.

"We designed the suit with everything the (astronaut) would need on Mercury," said Jason Baker. "We used three layers to protect him from the heat ... put on an oxygen mask and tank so he can breathe ... and a pressure gauge systems so he can monitor the temperature."

The impressive-looking life-sized model space suit — which the team has dubbed "4MSA" (for "4 Mercury Space Astronauts") — is a conglomeration of rubber winter boots, washer/dryer hoses, batteries, mirrors, electronic circuit boards, boxes, cardboard, and discarded clothing. The four boys explained enthusiastically about their prize-winning design and knew each and every device and the function it serves.

"We went over Jamie (Mitchell's) house and started drawing pictures of what we wanted," explained Andrew Whalen. "Then we spent the next two weekends building the suit and writing the report."

Since most of the other students built smaller models of their space suits — as there were no size requirements for the project — the winning team felt confident they would do well upon seeing their competition.

"We knew we'd have a good chance of winning because we built a full-size model," said Mr. Whalen. "Everyone else made a small doll."

Likewise, Gayle Almeida's team — which also included Carolyn Canastra, Marion Ewing, and Amy Bieringer — managed to create an equally-impressive full-size Saturn space suit known as "Solar Sykes," which earned them third place honors in the contest.

"Marion and I looked up information on Saturn before we started working on the project," said Carolyn Canastra. "Then we started making the suit."

The Saturn suit may not be loaded with as many bells and whistles as the winning Mercury design, but it remains just as practical. Encased almost entirely in insulating aluminum, it also sports oxygen tanks, a helmet, an internal temperature control system, and spiked boots for better traction.

"It was a lot of fun finding things around the house to build it with," agreed Marion Ewing.

As an added bonus, the good publicity which has been generated as a result of the contest has certainly gone a long way to boost the students' egos and help promote the school.

"There's been a tremendous outpouring of local support," Ms. Smith said. "The students have received letters from throughout the area ... telling them how proud they are that southeastern Massachusetts is getting some recognition."

Mattapoisett Selectmen's Meeting
January 24, 1995
By Bethany Morgan

A meeting of the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen was called to order on Tuesday, January 24 at 7:00 pm by Chairman John N. DeCosta, Jr. Also present were Selectman Daniel O. Mahoney, Selectman Paul E. Lambalot, and Executive Secretary Carol Adams.

The board first met with Police Officer and Constable Paul Magee regarding town constable appointments. Officer Magee initially wished to meet with the board regarding a constable from New Bedford who recently requested to be appointed by the board. Officer Magee, after discovering the constable had withdrawn the request, no longer needed to discuss his objections. Officer Magee did, however, wish that the record indicate the constable had illegally served civil papers to a town resident. Selectman Mahoney requested Officer Magee submit a letter regarding the situation to be filed for future use.

Officer Magee also discussed his concerns with the number of constables currently working in the town — two elected and three appointed. Officer Magee's concern was financial. Considering the size of the town, more than five constables would directly affect the income of the constables already present in the town. Officer Magee suggested limiting the number of constables as do surrounding towns.

Officer Magee also suggested the board make a provision that appointed constables, in the future, be only town residents. Acushnet, Rochester, and Fairhaven currently have such a provision. The board noted his requests and will take them under consideration.

The board next met with Brad Hathaway regarding his request that a non-binding referendum question be placed on this April's election ballot concerning the proposed gambling casino in New Bedford.

As other towns are proposing, Mr. Hathaway suggested the board survey the town's opinion on the matter. "We need a yardstick, and we don't have one," Mr. Hathaway said. Chairman DeCosta said he "would like to think about it," and the board would take it under consideration.

The board also met with Bill Cornish of Mattapoisett to discuss the survey he and associates organized for the reopening of the town beach. Mr. Cornish, Elaine Driscoll, Ken Correia, Kathy McCarthy, and Marilyn Kenney Lee conducted a survey that included the town's 571 elementary school students and their parents. Out of the 371 total responses, 339 parents responded heavily in favor of reopening the beach, providing life guards, and swimming lessons. Out of the negative responses, only one referred to possible increased taxes.

This past Saturday, the board met with Recreation Director John Shockro, to discuss the possibilities of opening the beach and the budget to be constructed. Selectman Mahoney said: "Mr. Shockro has a good bare bones budget."

A vote by the town is required to reopen the beach and will be presented at the Special Town Meeting on February 13, 1995 as a line item under Article 2.

Following the approval of the minutes for the January 17 and January 21 meetings, the board approved a request from Com/Electric to petition one joint pole location on Oliver's Lane and remove one

New Bedford Mayor Rosemary S. Tierney also sent notification of a regional meeting to be held in her office on Tuesday, February 7 at 8:00 am. Representatives from Carnival, Regan Communications, and the Wampanoag Tribe will be present to discuss the proposed casino/entertainment center in New Bedford.

The Marion/Mattapoisett/Rochester League of Women Voters sent a copy of their letter to the Board of Sewer and Water Commissioners regarding the lack of fluoride in town water. "We are concerned that the fact that town water does not contain the amount of fluoride which is accepted as efficacious to retard tooth decay is not regularly made known to town residents," the letter stated. "New residents who move into town, newly-pregnant women, or grandparents who have grandchildren visiting for extended times have no way of knowing or forget about the lack of fluoride and make no provision to supplement their needs."

The League suggested either regular notices of this fact be included with water bills, or the commission look into fluoridating the town water.

Shellfish Officer Charles Bradley next sent a recommendation to the board that a section of Sprague's Cove be opened to the taking of shellfish due to the planned reconstruction of the retention pond at

THANKS! THANKS! THANKS! THANKS! THANKS! THANKS! THANKS! THANKS! THANKS!

After 18 years of serving the children of this area, we have sold our store to No Kidding!, a toy store in Brookline. The new owners of The Toy Box share our philosophy about quality toys, and will be offering you virtually the same products and services as we do.

I have been touched by the wonderful people - friends and customers alike - who have taken the time to stop by and wish us well - and I am equally pleased that traditions of The Toy Box will continue under the new ownership.

Thanks to all of you who helped make this possible - we will miss you!!!

Selectman Winters informed his fellow board members that the town is nearly ready to sign their contract with Continental Cablevision, but they now need to decide how to service the new senior housing complex — either by traditional cable wiring or via satellite dish. "I would ask that we start the process now to get input from both the residents and the representatives of Continental Cablevision," he said. "It's going to take a little time to decide ... and we need to make a decision once the contract is signed."

Chairman Schaefer also asked that a Dog Facility Study Committee be formed to consider the possibility of building a new dog shelter in town or other options. Selectman Dickerson was named to the committee and was put in charge of coordinating the group and scheduling meetings. Suggested members included a local vet and a representative from the Board of Health.

At 7:30 pm the board met with and as part of the newly-established Growth Management Committee. Chairman Schaefer thanked everyone for volunteering their time, and added that she hoped the committee will be able to come up with a plan for what the town should look like in the next ten years.

"The charge to this committee is quite broad," she said. "But I think we can come back with a comprehensive plan which can be used by all other town boards. Our goal should be to allow development in an orderly fashion ... but be attentive to the needs of the community."

The first order of business was to nominate and elect a Chairman — the honors of which went unanimously to Robert F. Bennett.

Mr. Bennett agreed with Chairman Schaefer's comments and charge to the committee, and added that they should concentrate on residents' biggest concerns. "It sounds to me like a lot of people in town are concerned about the escalating growth rate in Marion and how it's going to affect us in the years ahead," he said. "I think we need to focus on addressing that concern."

Mr. Pickles agreed. "My own feeling is that there is a saturation point that will eventually be reached in Marion," he said. "There are certain factors which can change the rate ... but right now it looks like the curve is steadily increasing."

Selectman Winters added that it is important to deal with specific issues, rather than generalizing a "master plan." "I think there's a danger in dealing with generalities," he said. "Personally, I would like to see us come up with a draft of specific by-laws which address specific goals."

Chairman Schaefer echoed his sentiments. "I hope that this committee can come up with a living document for future generations to use," she said. The short-term goal for final recommendations from the Growth Management Committee has been set for January 1, 1996. The group agreed to next meet on Thursday, February 9 at 7:00 pm in the Selectmen's Office.

There being no further matters to come before the board, they unanimously voted to adjourn for the evening at 8:06 pm.

Rochester Selectmen's Meeting

January 23, 1995

A regular meeting of the Rochester Board of Selectmen was called to order on Monday, January 23 at 7:00 pm by Chairman David L. Hughes. Also present were Selectman Lorraine Roy Hawkes, Selectman Michael Murphy, and Administrative Secretary Shirley A. Ferreira.

After approving the minutes of the January 17 meeting with some corrections from Selectman Hawkes, Chairman Hughes opened a Public Hearing on an existing Earth Removal Permit for Walter Hartley and Greenwood Hartley III. The gentlemen requested that they be allowed to extending their hauling hours to Saturday, between 8:00

Selectman Hawkes noted she was not in favor of allowing hauling hours on Saturday — as she was with a previous request — due to the possible dangers involved with children being out of school. "Because of the safety reasons, I feel the same about this request," she said. "It's nothing personal ... I just think it's dangerous to have trucks traveling when the kids are out of school."

Walter Hartley responded that due to an increased demand for the soil product and considering that other permit holders were granted an extension, they really felt it was in their best interest to haul an extra day. "At the time we first (applied) for the permit, we didn't think there would be a demand," he said. "But now there is ... and there are other contractors in town working on Saturday."

As the extension was only for two months (February and March), both Selectman Murphy and Chairman Hughes agreed that the Hartley's should be allowed the extension. "My only concern is that no hauling is done after dark," Selectman Murphy added. With that, the request was approved via majority vote of the board for the two months stipulated.

Under incoming correspondence, the board received an informational letter from the Buzzards Bay Project regarding area towns' Open Space Plans. According to the letter, the state Executive Office of

ALTERATIONS/SHOE REPAIR

Environmental Affairs is expected to have some $4 million available to assist municipalities with land acquisition for conservation and outdoor recreational purposes.

"These reimbursement programs require communities to raise, borrow or appropriate 100 percent of the total project cost, with a final reimbursement ranging from 50 to 70 percent," the letter stated. "One of the requirements for municipalities to be eligible for these funds is to have a state-approved open space and recreational plan that has been developed or updated within the past five years."

Since the existing plan on file for Rochester expired in May of 1994, Chairman Hughes noted that they would have to await completion of the in-progress Community Action Statement to qualify for these funds. Chairman Hughes added that a Public Hearing will be slated within the month for input on the newly-written Community Action Statement.

The board next received a letter of resignation from Dorothy Lawrence, who is stepping down from her position as a dispatcher with the town's Communications Department, effective February 1. "I am pleased to have had the opportunity to serve the people in the Town of Rochester since November of 1983," she wrote. "I wish to thank everyone for giving me this chance."

Chairman Hughes accepted her resignation with regret, and Selectman Murphy added that the board should send her a letter of appreciation for her past service to the town.

Under notices for the week, Chairman Hughes cited an informational meeting regarding SRPEDD's Business Retention Initiative, which will be held on Tuesday, January 24 at 3:30 pm in the Silver City Galleria

Chairman Hughes also noted that a newly-formed Parkinson's Disease Support Group will be meeting on Wednesday, February 1 from 1:00 to 3:30 pm at the Middleboro Council on Aging.

At 7:15 pm, Town Clerk Naida Parker came before the board to discuss her plans for restoration of some of the town's older public records. According to Ms. Parker, some of the older books she keeps on file with records of land transactions, marriages, births and deaths, are beginning to deteriorate with age. She brought in some examples, along with a sample book which was recently restored by the Browns River Bindery Company.

"What they need to do is de-acidify the ink and pages to stop them from deteriorating," she said. "I wanted you to see (these samples), because I'm planning to put an article on the next Town Meeting warrant to begin the restoration of all our records."

Ms. Parker explained that the single volume she had restored cost about $900 — but other volumes would range in price according to size and the condition of the book. Most of the books would cost an estimated $200 to $900 to be restored.

"These (books) are really the only town property which dates back to the 1600's besides the actual land outside," she said. "In some cases, these are the only records that exist. I think it's important that we preserve them for future generations."

Ms. Parker said she discussed this project with Finance Committee Chairman Pat Ryan, and she plans to restore a few volumes every year — probably about $2,000 worth each time.

"It's really not a lot of money to spend on preserving the past when you consider all the money that we spend on equipment and (town vehicles) which are gone within 20 years," she said.

The board agreed, and said they supported Ms. Parker's restoration plans.

Under Old Business, Selectman Hawkes said she prepared a budget proposal for the Communications Department based on the addition of three full-time employees at variable rates of $10.50/hour, $10.00/hour, and $9.00/hour.

"I calculated the three full-time positions, totalling $62,400 for the year, and added a part-time position at $8.50 an hour, adding another $21,216 to the budget," she said. "That comes out to a total of $83,616 for the year."

Chairman Hughes noted that he would like to review the newly-proposed budget and save his recommendation until next week. He also asked that a copy be sent to Chief Dispatcher Scott Ashworth for his consideration.

Selectman Murphy advised his fellow board members that work on the Communications Center had been stalled due to possible problems with meeting fire regulations. However, Chairman Hughes said work had resumed as the problem had been rectified.

Selectman Hawkes also asked if they were planning on installing a bullet-proof glass and/or wall at the entrance to the Communications Center. "I want to speak to (Fire Chief Clapp) about it and if we can afford it, I'd like to do it just as a matter of safety," Selectman

Recently, the Town engaged the services of Municipal Management Associates to computerize delinquent and tax title files. This company has been assisting cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth to collect delinquent taxes for the past fifteen years. There are several actions that the Treasurer make take, in accordance with Massachusetts statutes, when a property is in Tax Title. Among these are: notifying the mortgage holder, the credit bureaus, filing a civil action in the Superior of District Court, withholding permits, and filing a Petition to Foreclose with the land court.

The Town may avail itself to any or all of these

WHEN NOT TO USE $125,000 EXEMPTION

Homeowners over age 55 may exclude from gross income any profit up to $125, 000 realized on the sale of a principal residence. To qualify for the exclusion, you must be age 55 by the day the residence is sold, and you must have owned the property and used it as a personal residence for at least three of the preceding five years. This tax break can be used only once in a lifetime.

Does this mean that it ALWAYS makes sense to use this tax break if you sell a home for a good profit when you are 55 or older ? Not necessarily. This exclusion was made primarily for a retiring couple to sell their old home and buy a small retirement home without having to pay significant capital gains taxes. If you are going to buy another home that will cost as much or more than your present one, it might make more sense to avail yourself of the rollover break which allows you to defer all the profit from the sale and which can be used as many times as you desire.

Call Bob at Fisher & Rocha, Inc., 758-6738 or stop by our office at 17 Fairhaven Road, Mattapoisett. We're happy to help you!

and several additional remedies available to it for the collection of past due real estate bills. These remedies are cumulative and many of these involve additional charges and fees to the delinquent taxpayer who is already being charged interest by Massachusetts statute at the rate of 14 percent a year and 16 percent a year for accounts already in Tax Title.

Those already in Tax Title will be pursued aggressively as well using these same procedures. It is in the delinquent taxpayer's best interest to contact the Treasurer/Tax Collector to resolve their delinquent tax balances at 758-4108.

Telephone Directory ("The Blue Book"), which the LWV prepares and publishes. This directory is mailed free to every postal patron in the three towns and all the schools and town halls are supplied with extra free copies. It has become a local tradition.

Last year's advertisers have all had their renewal forms mailed to them. However, if a form is irretrievably lost in a sea of holiday wrappings and January paperwork, a phone call to 748-2542 will alert the editors, John and Claire Russell, to send a new one.

There is still room and time for new advertisers. The book provides constant local exposure and rates are reasonable. Anyone interested should call the above number.

Marion, Mattapoisett and Rochester are each listed separately in the Telephone Directory and each section includes a town map. The book also lists important community resource numbers and appropriate state and national political addresses. The directory's advertisers are included, free of charge, in a classified section. Small businesses and services may buy classified listings independent of an advertisement.

a small black, white and orange calico.

The group's featured kittens this week include a pair of male siblings about five months old who would love to find a home together. One is a short-haired orange tiger, the other is a long-haired orange and white cat ... they make a super pair!

Another twosome is an almost all-black and a black and white — both are short-haired females, about 14 weeks old. The group also has an all-black female kitten with five toes, a couple of female tigers, and a fluffy black and white male. These kittens will be ready for adoption next week.

If interested in any of these offerings, please call one of the local Animal Umbrella representatives:

- Mary Lou at 758-9202
- Diane at 997-4037
- Priscilla at 758-2896.

Just a reminder that all Animal Umbrella kittens have been vet-checked, wormed, and have received their first vaccinations. All adult offerings are spayed and neutered and have also been vaccinated.

At this time of year, the group also gladly accepts and appreciates donations of cat food as they have many animals living outdoors who need extra feedings due to the cold weather. They also provide shelters for those less fortunate who cannot come in to sleep by the cozy fire. If anyone has empty dog houses, or anything that could be used as such, please call one of the representatives and they will gladly arrange to pick them up.

Philosophy/Religion Course at Tabor Academy

Area residents are invited to register for a course in comparative religion and philosophy to be held at Tabor Academy on seven alternate Monday evenings from early February through mid-May. The course is jointly sponsored by the Tabor Academy English Department and by the Marion Foundation, a non-profit community education organization that investigates the frontiers of human potential and consciousness.

Titled "The Extraordinary World of Mind and Spirit," the course will take a literary approach to philosophical and religious issues. That is, readings will include popular novels and autobiographies, rather than classic texts in philosophy and theology. Authors include James Allen, Tom Brown Jr., Joseph Campbell, Kahil Gibran, Hermann Hesse, Og Mandino, Pater Matthiessen, and Michael Murphy.

At each session, discussion of the readings will follow related to lectures on Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, Aldous Huxley, William James, Abraham Maslow, Thomas Moore, M. Scott Peck, Richard Tarnas, Paul Tillich, and Alfred North Whitehead. A supplementary reading list with these authors will be available for those interested in further study. The Bookstall in Marion (748-1041) will carry the required titles and can order supplementary readings.

The course instructor is Bart Nourse, Tabor faculty member and director of the Marion Foundation. Mr. Nourse has degrees in the history of ideas and in international studies. Classes will meet from 7:15 to 9:00 pm in the Lyndon North Auditorium at Tabor Academy on the following Mondays: February 6 and 20, March 6, April 3 and 17, May 1 and 15. The course costs $50 plus expenses for those books residents choose to purchase. To register, please call Joyce West at the Marion Foundation (748-0816).
